Thanks are extended by the officers and members to all organizations for their splendid donations to the Christmas

LEGION COURSES SHOW VALUE OF PLANNED READING SYSTEM

An outstanding feature of the Canadian Legion Educational Service long-range programme for the men and women wearing the uniforms of the navy, army and air force, and which will be of distinct advantage to those taking part in it, is that of "planned reading."

The advantage will undoubtedly come in the post-war years, or on discharge before the end of the war, because it is a recognized fact among employers and employees alike that the man or woman who has educational background is more acceptable to the various fields of employment.

Under planned reading part of the education service programme is a lengthy list of guides to reading, written by outstanding authorities and with advice and suggestions on what books to read in order to fully acquaint the reader with the particular subject or subjects in which he or she is interested.

The guides to reading are published in booklet form and are available to the service men and women in uniform who may select from these books the books they desire to read.

Applications for the books listed in the guides to reading are obtainable by service men and women on forms which may be completed at the various units throughout the country and forwarded to one of thirteen Canadian Legion Educational Services regional offices.

The desirability of labor organizations
co-operating with the Unemployment Insurance Commission in acquainting insured persons with their rights under the act has been emphasized by Fred J.
White, regional superintendent, who points out that the primary function of the act is to provide employment service, and when suitable work was not available, the insured person was entitled to benefit.

Stating that the unions were in a favorable position to give advice and guidance to members, it was suggested that they appoint a representative or committee to study the act and be a liaison between the unions and employment and selective service.

COAL MINING

(By Jack Longworth)

This paper gave a brief account of the mining operations as carried out in the southwest corner of the province.
The process of mining coal, beginning with the preliminary prospecting and followed through the development of a mining property to the cleaning, grading and turning out of the finished product was traced with special reference to interesting features in the Bellevue and Blairmore mines.

The coal bearing formation occurring in this area is the Kootenay formation, which contains the highest grade coal in the province.

Seams which are now being mined vary in thickness between six and twenty feet and have pitches varying from five degrees to vertical.

Machinery plays a big part in the actual mining and delivery of the coal to the cleaning plant on the surface.
Motors, operated with compressed air, are used to pull loaded pit cars in some mines, while others utilize steel ropes haulage.

The cleaning process is essentially a means of separating the coal from rock, and is carried out on the principle of difference in specific gravity with the aid of water and air waste.

Together the Bellevue and Blair-more mines produce an average of 3,500 tons per working day, the chief consumers of which are the CPB, and Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. at Trail.—The Gateway, Feb. 22.

Again the RED CROSS ASKS YOUR HELP TO HEAL A WAR-TORN WORLD GIVE!

Wherever the great destroyer, War, has passed, pain, suffering and sorrow follow in its wake. Young men on the battlefield or in hospitals are tormented by sickness or wounds. Little children, mothers, aged people are homeless, hungry, cold. In every theatre of war, whole cities lie in ruins. Millions are suffering the pangs of disease, starvation and dire want.

So the Red Cross will continue to reach out a helping hand. It must heal and comfort our own sick and wounded.
It must send food, clothing, medical supplies to war-torn lands.

And the Canadian Red Cross will answer this urgent call. For the Canadian Red Cross is you and your friends and your neighbors, and all the good folks up and down this fair Dominion of ours.
You will send help—yes, life itself—to the stricken people of other lands. You will stand staunchly behind your Red Cross, and—GIVE!

Leadership In War

EVERY WAR HAS HAD ITS GREAT LEADERS in both political and military affairs, and undoubtedly wise and courageous leadership make an invaluable contribution to the welfare of a nation at all times, whether it is at peace or at war. The fate which has now overtaken Germany, Japan and Italy, is the result of the predatory policies of the Axis leaders, which has led not only to the destruction of their own countries, but to the disruption of normal living in almost every part of the world. In contrast, we have the example of the magnificent leadership which has been given to Great Britain, the United States, Russia and other United Nations during the five difficult years which have just passed. Each of these nations has passed through numerous crises during the war, but their governments have remained firm and the people have had every reason to give their loyalty and support to the men who are their leaders.

Empire Has Had Great Leaders

It is often said that the British Empire has been fortunate in having many great men for leaders, both in politics and in combat. The pages of history substantiate this belief, for the story of the British people is linked with such names as Cromwell, Pitt, Gladstone, Drake, Wellington, Nelson, and countless others. The second World War will add many more to this list, for there has been no lack of men of courage, vision and ability to lead at this time. Although in comparison with the enemy, Britain was poorly prepared for war, men came forward in every branch of service, who were able to lead the nation to a position of superiority in spite of air raids, submarine warfare, bomb attacks and numerous other difficulties. It is true that the resources of the United Nations were greater than those of the enemy, but they could not have been so quickly and effectively mobilized had we been less fortunate in the quality of our leaders.

Many Changes For Germany

The course of events during the past twenty years have perhaps demonstrated more clearly than at any time in the world's history, the great damage that can be wrought through the unscrupulous use of political power. The question of the extent to which the people of the Axis nations are guilty for the acts of their leaders is a controversial one, but one point which is clear is that it is the concern of every country to see that in the future they must show that they are capable of choosing wise leaders, or have those leaders chosen for them. At the recent conference in the Crimea, Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin showed that among the "Big Three" there is complete agreement concerning the need to stamp out all that is connected with Germany's repeated efforts to gain power through aggression during the past century. This will involve a very different type of leadership for the German people, but if this change can be effected, it will go far towards ensuring peace in the years to come.

Study Dress Designing

War Veterans In Montreal Decide To Enroll For Course

Men who have battled in tanks and marched miles in mud can nevertheless produce the art and dexterity required to design a lady's dress. That is what 25 war veterans in Montreal believe and they have the courage of their convictions for they have enrolled to take a course in dress designing. But the veterans don't propose to forget that they have been active service. They've applied to form a dress-designers branch of Canadian Legion.

SMILE AWHILE

"I can't. I don't bend that way."
"What happens when a body is completely immersed in water?"
"The telephone rings."
Policeman to gentleman staggering home at 3 a.m.: "Where are you going at this time of night?"
"To a lecture."

Private: Could I get a forty-eight, sir, to help my wife with the spring cleaning?
Captain: No, I'm afraid not.
Private: "Thank you, sir, I know I could rely on you."

Johnny had seen his mother mow the yard, holding one end to her nose and the other at arm's length. One day he came running in with a piece of rope.
"Here, mother," he said, "smell this and see how long it is."

Mrs. Giddy: "I wonder why those people across the street are always looking into your window?"
Mr. Giddy: "Maybe it's to find out why you are always looking into theirs."

Old Gent: What does your father do for a living, sonny?
Tommy: He chops down trees.
Old Gent: And what does he do when he has chopped them down?
Tommy: He chops them up.

Minister (dinner guest): "And what will you do when you get as big as your mother?"
Little Jane: "Diet."

"My dear," exclaimed the husband when he arrived home late and found his wife waiting for him, "you'd never guess where I've been tonight."
"Oh, yes, I can," replied his wife, "but go on with your story anyway."

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—What coupons in our ration book are to be used for rationing sugar?
A—Canning sugar can be purchased with the use of ration coupons. Under this arrangement there will be only two types of coupons for the purchase of sugar, that is, the regular sugar coupon good for one pound of sugar and the ration allotment. Eight more coupons of sugar or the alternative value in preserves. Two of these extra preserves coupons will become valid on March 15 to provide for early preserving, which will bring coupons 41, 42, 43 and 44 into use. Two of these coupons cover the regular preserves ration allotment. Eight more coupons will become valid for canning sugar on the 17th of May, and the other ten will be good on and after July 19.

Q—I wish to order a gallon of maple syrup from Eastern Canada. Can you tell me what the procedure is?
A—If you wish to order one gallon of syrup, you must forward four preserves coupons to the nearest Local Ration Board. A special document will then be mailed to you and you will place your order with the producer. After June 1st the value of the preserves coupons goes back to its former value of 24 fluid ounces. Each coupon now is worth 40 fluid ounces, as of February 19.

Q—If I sell my house which I now have rented, how many months' notice would I have to give the tenants who are living in it now?

A—You cannot give notice at all. The new purchaser must give the tenants a month's notice and must plan on occupying the house for at least a year. If you have the house occupied for the same period of time by the father, mother, son, daughter, or daughter-in-law of the purchaser. You cannot ask a tenant to move between the dates of September 30 and April 30 of the following year.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' Guide to Blue Book in which you keep track of your selling prices, mentioning the name of the business, the date, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

Over The Falls

Plans To Duplicate His Father's Feast Of Shooting Niagara

William (Red) Hill, Jr., 31-year-old son of the famous riverman who shot the Niagara river rapids in a barrel 14 years ago, said he plans to duplicate his father's feat next May 14, third anniversary of Hill's death. "I'm not doing this for myself," he said, explaining he hopes to erect a monument to his father with the proceeds.
The late William Hill was the only man to hold four life-saving medals from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. He recovered more than 300 bodies from the Niagara river.
"If anyone is entitled to a suitable monument near the banks of the Niagara river, that man is my father," Hill said.

He said he would make his trip in a steel barrel which was designed by his father.

Prized Heirloom

16th Century Glass In Possession Of Edmonton Woman

A Venetian glass pickle dish 429 years old and said to be the only one of its kind in Canada is one of the proud possessions of Mrs. E. Murray of Edmonton. An heirloom handed down in the family from mother to daughter through many generations, it came to her 40 years ago and originally came from one of the family in Switzerland.

The unique beauty of the piece lies in the rare quality of the glass which contains a blend of colors; black, violet, purple and mauve rising through the heavy glass. Mrs. Murray says antique experts at Edmonton have told her the formula by which the glass was made has been lost for 400 years.

Solve Labor Problems

Women Employed On Various Railway Jobs Do Good Work

Women workers have entered into many railway occupations which were held exclusively by men before the war. A survey just completed shows a total of 654 women employed in Canadian National Shops, roundhouses, coach yards and car repair tracks throughout the system. Some of them are boilermakers, welders, carolers, blacksmith helpers and electric crane operators. But the majority of these women are applying their natural household cleaning habits to keeping railway locomotives and passenger cars as spotless as possible. Others are helpers to machinists, sheet metal workers, boilermakers and carmen; and the remainder are classified as laborers, seamstresses, car porters and a turntable operator. The Central Region of the C.N.R. has 373 women in these Mechanical Department positions, followed by the Atlantic Region with 124, the Western Region with 80, and on C.N.R. lines the United States, 77.

"These workers are doing an excellent job and they have certainly solved many of our labor problems due to war conditions," said E. R. Bailey, chief of motive power and car equipment for the National system.

"When these male employees now in the services receive their military discharges they will, of course, return to their railway jobs which were filled by these women workers."

Indians Built Hospital

Crees Care For Patients Themselves Under Doctor's Supervision

An Indian woman, critically ill, was restored to health through the administration of penicillin in a makeshift hospital built by her fellow Crees at Favorable Lake, near the Ontario-Manitoba border. Dr. P. E. Moore, acting superintendent of medical services for the Indian Affairs Branch, Mines and Resources Department, said.

Dr. L. C. Bartlett, who has practiced at Favorable Lake for several years and who treated the woman, reports results obtained from the continuous, intravenous administration of penicillin were miraculous.

A second native patient, also seriously ill, was successfully treated with penicillin.

The building, containing eight beds, was erected with the help of the Indian Affairs Branch, which supplied materials. Now, said Dr. Moore, the Indians bring their sick to Dr. Bartlett for treatment and pitch their tents beside his hospital. No other help is available, and they care for the patients themselves under his supervision.

MILK IS A VALUABLE FOOD

Milk is not a perfect food but is the best individual one known. It contains materials which produce energy, foster growth, take care of the repair of worn out muscle tissue, and which, together with vitamin D, can look after the formation and upkeep of bones and teeth. It is a fundamental food, for human beings of all ages.

However, milk does not contain all the food requirements in correct proportion. It is about from 84% to 85% water. It contains an emulsified fat, commonly known as butter which is chiefly digested in the stomach. All other food fats take much longer to break down and are digested in the intestines.

The protein of milk has all the factors which sustain life as it contains important minerals and vitamins. However, it is deficient in iron, iodine, vitamin B1 or thiamin and vitamins C and D.

Considered a "fine all-round food," it is at the same time a culture medium for fermentative, putrefactive and virulent disease germs.

Dr. John R. Fraser, Dean of Medicine at McGill University, Montreal, has stated that "unsafe milk has been responsible in the past for more deaths and illness than all other foods grouped together."

And, even clean milk can be unsafe, despite all possible precautions at the source of supply. Therefore, milk must be put through some process that will kill disease germs before it is bottled in order to make it safe. That process is pasteurization.

CLOTHES LINE FANS AT HEART

In a recent article in the Maple Leaf, Canadian Army newspaper, in Italy, a poll of C.W.A.C.s serving in the Mediterranean area was taken on the question, "Women in the Post-War Army." The "No's" got a big majority. Pte. Carol Thompson, Carleton Place, said "Yes" and gave her reason. "I favor women in the post-war army because I think the war has changed many of us and a number of us don't intend to get married." She didn't enlarge her point! Among the "no's" was Pte. Mary Reeves, Merritt, B.C., to whom "lines" mean something since her service in Italy. Mary said, "In peace time there's no line but in the one in the back yard from pole to pole is the necessity of women in uniform doesn't arise." Sgt. Isabel Lockhead, one-time Calgary newspaper woman, said, "I'm the domestic type and old fashioned enough to think a woman's place is still in the home."

Sgt. Nancy Mercer, Manville, Alta., with a practical thought remarked, "The permanent force is hardly a conceivable frame-work for a feminine career." The letter seemed to have the post-war army all to themselves—the girls are turning in their G.I. for a frilly frock and a date with the back yard clothes line!

CANUCKS PREFER CWAC

Lana Turner and Grace Garson have had it so far as these Canadian gunners on active service in Holland are concerned—they prefer C.W.A.C.s. Evidence of this fact comes in a letter recently received by the C.W.A.C. Commanding Officer at Fort Osborne, Barracks, Winnipeg, requesting pin-up pictures of eight C.W.A.C.s. The letter signed "Eight Canucks" read in part: "As you know most fellows are writing to movie stars for pin-ups but we would prefer eight pictures of our own Canadian C.W.A.C.s." In a P.S. of sudden courtesy the boys signed their names and addresses. Three of them were Westerners, Gunners J. L. Costello, Vancouver and R. Viccars and F. Meyers, Calgary. To fulfill their request a canvas of M.D. 10 is being made and eight of the most "pin-up-able" C.W.A.C.s in the district. Their pictures will be made in wallet size and dispatched to the lonely Canadian gunners.

STEW WITH GLAMOR

Almost everyone will agree that a well prepared, attractively served stew rates well up on the list of flavoursome, savory meats. The less expensive cuts of meat are here used to their best possible advantage—and in dramatic style.

S economical, savvy—with an appetizing appeal to tempt and coax the appetite, the stew is a particularly happy choice for service these days when thoughtful menu planners are seeking to provide the most in food value for their families at the least cost.

Countless variations are included in the list of stews, with almost every family cookbook boasting its own special favorite version. One delicious variety uses veal with an assortment of vegetables and piquant seasonings.

This stew gains an interesting new touch of glamor by the service of a new accompaniment—oven popped rice cereal combined with a judicious assortment of seasonings, shortening and tangy grated cheese. These crisp bubbles of grain are a happy choice for service with veal stew because they lend appealing texture contrast, added flavor and delightful eye appeal. They are prepared with a minimum of effort, too, an important factor on busy days.

Then add the vegetables and surround it with the savory veal stew. A service of spiced peaches or cran apples is an especially appropriate menu accompaniment.

Vegetable Vell Stew (Serves 5-6)

1½ pounds chuck, breast or neck of veal (cut in cubes)
5 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons pepper
¾ cup bacon drippings
4 medium potatoes (diced)
4 medium carrots (sliced)
1 cup peas (fresh or canned)
½ cup shortening
2 drops tobacco sauce
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
1 cup oven popped rice cereal (1 package)
½ cup dry grated cheese (4 oz.)
Mix three tablespoons of the flour with the salt and pepper. Dredge the cubes of veal in the flour mixture and brown them in the hot bacon drippings. Cover with boiling water and simmer, covered for about 1½ hours. Then add the vegetables and simmer for one-half hour longer. Mix remaining two tablespoons of flour with cold water to form a smooth paste. Add to stew and cook until the gravy is thickened, stirring constantly. Serve with Cheese Cereal made as follows:

Melt shortening in large shallow baking pan (popovers 10 x 15) add seasonings. Stir in oven popped rice cereal. Add grated cheese; mix thoroughly. Place in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) stirring occasionally, for about 15 minutes.

British Market For Bacon Must Be Maintained

OTTAWA.—It would be a mistake to allow hog production to decline, because Canada's post-war market will depend largely on the number of hogs she is able to produce, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said in an interview.

In the week ended Feb. 17, hog gradings amounted to 1,127,276, a decline of 28.5 per cent. as compared with gradings of 1,577,511 in the corresponding week of 1944.

Last year Canada shipped 700,000,000 pounds of bacon to the United Kingdom, and has undertaken to ship 450,000,000 pounds in 1945 and 1946 respectively, a total of 900,000,000 pounds. A market exists for as much as can be produced, and British authorities have indicated they hoped shipments would reach 600,000,000 pounds in 1945 and 1946.

Mr. Gardiner said production last year was higher than had been thought possible, and that to some extent farmers "overdid" it. The production of feed grains last year was "not so good," and livestock had been fed on the big crop grown in 1942.

Labor and feed now are the principal problems. The feed problem in Canada now is primarily one of distribution, and though the over-all supply situation is not stringent, stocks of coarse grains are decreasing fairly rapidly because of heavy domestic disappearance and an active export movement.

Hog production will "come back" to some extent as the year goes along, he said. There was bound to be some reaction. More labor was required to feed hogs than to produce beef, but "we want all the hogs we can get."

After the war Britain would return to hog production to the extent that she could feed herself. She preferred to produce milk for her own requirements and likely would turn to Canada for cheese requirements.

Britain would be unable to raise more than a certain number of hogs on her own feed grains, and if it became necessary to import grain she no doubt would consider it sound policy to buy hogs from "the people who have the grain and can finish them."

"We must demonstrate that Canada can consistently produce a certain amount," said Mr. Gardiner. "We ought to be sending over 500,000,000 or 600,000,000 pounds of bacon each year. We should keep to the highest possible level to convince the British we can maintain it."

FILIPINOS FREE

Civil Administration Is Again To Be Restored

MANILA.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur restored civil administration of the Philippines to the commonwealth government and thus fulfilled a pledge given to the Filipinos when he withdrew his troops from Manila three years ago.

Standing among the ruins of burned and sacked Manila, MacArthur reviewed those three years of "bitterness, struggle and sacrifice," and vowed that "by these ashes" the enemy "has wantonly fixed the pattern of his own doom."

MacArthur's action, broadcast through the world was hailed by a cheering throng of civil and military officials gathered in the liberated capital.

President Sergio Osmeña, in accepting restoration of the civil government, appealed to all duly-elected members of the congress who "have remained steadfast to their allegiance" to return to Manila and re-establish the legislative branch.

"I ask all my people to help re-establish law and order for a formal return so that in 1945 our request for independence will be granted," Osmeña said.

AID FOR FRENCH NAVY

WASHINGTON.—The United States navy has spent more than $200,000,000 to rebuild the French navy since the Allied landings in North Africa in 1942, it was announced. In addition, the United States, with assistance from Britain, is supplying all material to operate the French fleet.

Lieut.-Governor Albert Matthews reviews the Veterans Guard of Honor before the Parliament buildings at Queen's Park, Toronto, prior to the opening of the Ontario legislature.

Problems Of Veterans Will Be Discussed

TORONTO.—Before Johnny comes marching home, educationalists and industrial leaders believe he'll have formed some new ideas about his place in the business, professional and industrial world of post-war Canada.

Helping the returned serviceman put his ideas into practice to his own advantage and Canada's, is the task businessmen, government officials and educators have given themselves in calling a reorientation conference at Montebello, Que., April 7 to 11.

First of its kind in Canada, the conference has been called by Canadian legion educational services to pool ideas of employers across the Dominion for successful reorientation of veterans.

Dr. W. J. Dunlop, co-chairman of the conference, explained in an interview here plans behind the conference which some 150 delegates are expected to attend. Dr. Dunlop is chairman of the central Ontario committee on education for the legion.

Dr. Dunlop cited the example of the former office boy, who after two or three years in the army, comes home "with the idea of becoming general manager." Then there's the case of a first-year law student who decides his career lies in an advertising agency and there's the man who wants to come back to his old job as he left it. Canadian employers must find a place for him, too. "We found, on investigation, that a number of the country's chief employers had reorientation plans of their own," Dr. Dunlop says. "When we approached them with the proposition of pooling their ideas through a national conference, however, we found them highly enthusiastic to discuss their plans with the other fellow."

PRISONERS MOVED

4,000 British And American Prisoners Sent To Another Camp

LONDON.—The British war office said it had been informed that 4,000 sick American and British prisoners of war have left Stalag 344 at Landsberg in eastern Germany for another German prison camp as yet unknown. Canadians have been reported among prisoners located at Stalag 344.

Physically fit prisoners from Stalag 344 were reported on the march, between Bohemisch Leipa and Karlsbad. The war office said also that prisoners from Stalag 8, where Canadians also were reported located, had been divided, part proceeding toward Kassel and part toward Neuenberg, while prisoners from Stalag 6-C were moving toward Hanover and Kassel.

HIMMLER'S STRONG HAND

LONDON.—Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler, charged with holding together the German home front, was reported to be transmitting Hitler's defence garrison to an army of fanatics. Himmler's weekly magazine, Das Schwarze Korps, threatened to every party leader who fed his post or otherwise failed to give an example of "courageous resistance in the face of the enemy."

Promoters and financial agents will be required to keep files of all transactions and present them for approval to a securities commission. The commission, not to exceed three members, will be responsible to the government for its actions.

Persons carrying on business of "investment counsel" are for the first time recognized and are required to register under the act.

Great Powers Prepared For Enemy Collapse

LONDON.—Prime Minister Churchill declared that the great powers were completely prepared for the collapse of Germany, said the proposed Polish frontier would "not sow the seeds of future war" and gave his personal assurance of Russia's good faith in plans for the peace.

He promised drastic and effective steps "to render offensive action by Germany utterly impossible for generations to come," and called on Germany again to surrender.

Mr. Churchill said the United States would play "a vitally important part" in a new, far-stronger world security league "which will not shrink from establishing its will against the evil-doers" by force of arms.

Giving the first public account by one of the principals at the momentous Crimea conference, he termed the proposed Polish boundary "the fairest division which can be made between the two countries."

Marshal Stalin has given "the most solemn declarations" that Poland's sovereignty and independence would be maintained, he said, and "this decision has now been joined in both by Great Britain and by the United States."

He declared the objective of the great powers was "to save the world—not to rule it" and that "the world organization cannot be based upon the dictatorship of the great powers."

At one point the prime minister delivered a passage which indicated that the question of Russian participation in the war with Japan may have been at least raised at the Crimea conference.

He said the San Francisco world security conference opening April 25 would bring together "all those representatives of the United Nations who have declared war upon Germany and Japan by the first of March, 1945, and who have signed the United Nations conference declaration."

HAS HUGE INCOME

Gangsters In Full Control Of Black Market In Britain

LONDON.—The black market in Britain has grown into a gangster-controlled network with an annual income of more than $5,000,000 ($22,500,000).

Figures recently made public of the huge losses suffered by public utilities—and eventually the war effort—have started an outcry for more effective police action.

Huge quantities of goods "vanish" every day from railway sidings, ports and roads to find their way into the black market, including foods, tobacco, cigarettes, cloth, shoes, furniture, fuel, cameras, drugs, flashlight batteries, radios and mail.

Most lucrative source of supplies for the "blackmarkets" are British railways. During 5½ years more than $10,000,000 worth of goods, rationed and unrationed has been stolen, most of it for sale in the underground markets. Added to that is another $1,000,000 a year from road and canal traffic and $500,000 a year from ships in port.

Food Minister Llewellyn said the black market spots are the great ports like London, Liverpool and Bristol and certain industrial cities in the north.

Whole consignments of army goods are written off weekly, as are type writers, sewing machines, and motor-car accessories.

ARGENTINA'S STAND

Is Unlikely That It Will Find Cause To Declare War

BUENOS AIRES.—Col. Juan Peron, vice-president of Argentina, declared he desired full restoration of cordial relations with the United States and Russia but said the possibility was unlikely that his country would find tottering Germany's behavior sufficient cause to declare war against the Nazis.

In an interview, Col. Peron asserted that a sudden declaration of war against Germany, "on grounds palpably insufficient, tardily recognized and opportunistic would alienate our friends in this country and other American republics and give our foes an opportunity to heap scorn on us."

March On Rhine Caused Enemy Great Damage

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN GERMANY.—Overcoming German resistance to the advance of the 1st Canadian army through rolling farmlands between the Maas and Rhine rivers in scorching the German countryside as surely as if the enemy were destroying his own villages, his own cattle, his own crops.

This march on the Rhine follows a destructive course. Kleve, Goch, Calcar, Uedem and lesser villages in the path of the advance since Feb. 8 can be written off as habitable communities, for bombs, shells, mortars and small-arms fire have razed their buildings, torn up their streets, wrecked their public services.

Farmhouses along the dirt roads linking the towns are in equally bad shape. The Germans converted them into strongpoints and our artillery smashed them to pulp with countless shells.

The Canadian artillery fire recently has been tremendous. In some places scarcely an arm's length separates craters. Rich in livestock before the attack began, the countryside now is a graveyard for hundreds of cows, pigs, sheep, horses and poultry.

Uedem, where organized resistance ended, even the heavy bombing which smashed Kleve and Goch on the eve of the 1st Canadian army offensive, but it has been pounded by medium bombers and fighter-bombers and deluged with shells. Many houses are still standing, but they lack fronts, sides or roofs.

Uedem's defenders were chiefly paratroopers and Maj. R. D. Hodgins of Preston, Ont., said "about 90 per cent" of them would die in their holes rather than give up. The battalion took only between 30 and 40 prisoners.

THE FLYING BOMB

Something More Than "Incident" As Official Language Describes It

LONDON.—The official language still calls them V-bombs "incidents" in "southern England."

Thirteen-year-old Daphne Newton figured in one. She had just said goodbye to her father and mother and run out of the house to call for a friend on the way to school.

As she rounded the corner and pushed open the friendly gate, the V-weapon fell. When choking clouds of dust cleared, Daphne looked back. Her home was a rubble, her parents dead beneath it.

Her neighborhood since 1940 has been scarred by a mine, an ordinary bomb and two flying bombs, all before last fall.

NEW APPOINTMENT

Thos. Miller Will Be Lieutenant-Governor of Saskatchewan

OTTAWA.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced the appointment of Thomas Miller, publisher of the Moose Jaw Times, as lieutenant-governor of Saskatchewan, succeeding Archibald Peter McNab.

Mr. McNab, probably Saskatchewan's most colorful lieutenant-governor, has been in ill health for some time and his duties have been handled by Chief Justice William Martin.

It was Chief Justice Martin who officially opened the present sitting of the Saskatchewan legislature.

Officials of the mines and natural resources department—who have just completed an aerial survey of northern regions—report that caribou are widely distributed throughout the north country this year.

BERLIN AND BEYOND

With the crashing victories in the East and the offensives in the West, armchair strategists are already mentally boarding their bus for Berlin. We hope they are right. At the same time they need to be reminded of their destination. Berlin, yes—and beyond. It is the "beyond" which so urgently needs clear thinking. After armed victory, what? Have we seen a preview in recent weeks of the years of re-construction? Hatred between man and man sweeping across Europe? Politics with passion backed by bullets in the place of reason and justice?

More and more, events will force men of goodwill to cut through the tangle of politics to the simple moral issues. As one member of parliament shrewdly remarked, it is no longer a question of right against left, but right against wrong. The men who will see their way through the current confusion will tackle every problem in the light of one consideration. They will ask, "Is it right?" "Is it for the good of the country?" and not "How will it affect me?"

They will be the pioneers of a new age. They will set a new fashion of unselfish leadership in every community. They will spread to the nation a philosophy that makes men great and for ever outmoded the reactionary ideas of materialism. They will love the country with a living, loving, laughing passion that will dethrone the great god "I want" from the hearts of men.

It will be the part of statesmanship in the coming days to show all people of goodwill how they can enlist in this battle. We cannot afford to be "Too little and too late" in the war of ideas. Instead, we can produce from the assembly-line of national character the morally re-armed men and women who will win the new world for which our sons have died.

EXTEND FREE MATERNITY

Alberta free maternity hospital care legislation will be extended to cover residents of this province in cases where it is more convenient for the patient to enter hospital in other provinces, according to terms of an amending act which has been introduced into the legislature.

The new regulation is designed to apply in cases where the nearest Alberta hospital is a long distance away, but one is close at hand in a neighboring province.

The situation has arisen in the north and northwest sections of Alberta, where British Columbia hospitals are readily accessible, but the nearest Alberta institution is many miles distant and in some cases not connected by road to outlying settlements of this province.

The legislation will give the government power to make agreements with hospitals outside of Alberta, in order that residents of distant sections may take advantage of free maternity provisions now applicable elsewhere in Alberta.

Scientists Have Found Jaundice Is Caused By A Virus

Our old enemy, the fly, is in for another drubbing by scientists. Many victims captured in Tunisia were victims of jaundice. Allied troops in the same area later contracted the same disease. Subsequent research suggests that jaundice is a virus disease with the fly as its most common carrier. The particular organism which causes it has not yet been isolated, but experiments—some carried out with assistance of conscientious objectors who volunteered for this service—have added greatly to medical knowledge regarding it. This organism, it has been determined, is exceptionally hardy, surviving temperatures high enough to kill most viruses. Since there are different kinds of jaundice, there probably also is more than one type.

Making public the conclusions so far reached, members of the Army Medical Corps reveal that jaundice is more prevalent than any other disease in this war. It is said to have cost more lives and more loss of time than any other sickness. In Italy it is even said to have inflicted more casualties than battle wounds. An attack has been enough to keep a man out of action for two or three or more months. Furthermore, it is increasing in this country to such an extent that it has been made reportable in many United States. Under these conditions the discovery that it comes from a virus, spread through pollution like dysentery, is of utmost importance. The things that have been learned about its treatment are important, too. But the major thing is that on the basis of what is known now preventive measures can be taken. Foremost among these is to swat the fly.—Brandon Sun

Text Explained With Comments

The Cost of Discipleship, Matthew 19:16-22. And behold: Matthew's way of introducing a matter of importance. The Rich Young Ruler, as we call him from Luke's account, came to Jesus with the question, "Teacher, what good thing shall I do that I may have eternal life?" The question was a natural one in those days when the rabbis had given out so many rules to follow.

"The maxim of the rulers was, 'There is nothing good but the Law.' Jesus flung the young man out of that groove of thought by calling to his mind a goodness higher than the goodness of the Law, namely, God's goodness. 'One thing is who is good, and to obey his will is your right course of action.' But if that would enter into life, keep the commandments," he added. "Which?" very naturally the young man asked, for Jesus had just said that there were six hundred and thirteen precepts in the law and they divided them into the Decalogue, all of them bearing upon the treatment of others, and then added from Leviticus 19:18: "And, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

"All these things have I observed, yet lack I yet?" No wonder: that Jesus, looking upon this young man of a clear record and earnest heart, loved him and wanted to do all the things required of a true Being-Eye dog—and many more. Sallie's master, Roy, had to make a living, so he decided to sell newspapers in order to build up a cash reserve for a future enterprise. But a newswoman in this small town was out of the question. It was then that Sallie came to the rescue. Together they now operate a delivery route. People of Wayneville, call Sallie "practically human. Roy starts out on his route, his arms bulging with papers. Sallie, believe it or not, knows every step on the entire route. Frequently, Roy makes a mistake in tossing a paper toward a porch. When he does, Sallie halts, disengages his grip on her harness and redeposits the paper in the proper place.

MASTER OF THE HOUSE

By RUBY PROCTOR
McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Deb was tired. His shoulders were hunched forward in their accustomed slump, and his chin was set at its usual defeated angle. He wanted to relax his thin body in the easy chair and read the paper before supper was ready. But it was not to be.

"Deb," his wife said, as soon as he entered the kitchen, "before you sit down now, I want you should put a new washer on the sink faucet."

"It did not occur to Deb to protest. He was getting his tools in the basement when the car stopped in the drive. It was Tom Shannon bringing Mary, Deb's daughter, home. He did not mean to eavesdrop, but the basement window was open, and he couldn't help but hear. It was the same old argument.

"If we can't afford to live by ourselves we won't get married until I get another raise."

"Oh, Tom," Mary's voice was tearful. "Why don't you be like Papa? He always does whatever Mama says."

"I'm never going to be like Deb," Tom said scornfully. "When we're married I'll be master of the house."

Deb was so surprised to be angry. Master of the house; it was a frightful thought. He pushed it quickly to the back of his mind, and went on about his task.

So Deb didn't see the paper until after supper. He folded it over, and there was the ad. He saw it right off.

"For sale: Small farm, fruit trees, six-room house, good condition. Will sacrifice for $8,000 cash."

It was exactly what they had wanted for years. Deb thought excitedly. He would let Mama find the ad for herself. But Mama's eyes passed indifferently over the classifieds. She stifled a yawn, turned the page. Deb had to swallow twice before he could trust his voice.

"Did you see that ad?" he managed finally. "The one about the small farm for sale, just sixty-five hundred dollars."

"Oh," said Mama indifferently, "is that cheap?"

Deb didn't know if it was cheap or not. That wasn't the point. "That's just what we got," said Deb. "Sixty-five hundred dollars."

Mama looked startled. "Now, Papa, you don't know a thing about farming, and you're too old to learn."

"We could have a garden and flowers and things," Deb argued wistfully, "and a cow and chickens like we always planned."

"No, Papa, we are too old to make a change now," she said stubbornly. Mary spoke from the doorway. "Papa, that's the silliest notion I ever heard!"

Deb felt sick. If Mary were on his side she could win her mother over. He maintained a resentful silence. Suppose Tom had wanted a farm—it was exciting just to think about it. Tom would have bought it. He would have been master of the house.

The next day on his way home at noon, Deb met Mary.

"I guess Tom and I can't get married this year," she said unhappily. "I looked at apartments, but the rents are too high."

Deb said, resentfully, "If we took that farm, you and Tom could have this place, rent-free."

He saw Mary's stricken look, and thought, spitefully: It serves her right for always siding in with her mother.

Mama was a good cook. She had Deb's favorite dinner, but he didn't even touch his dessert; blueberry pie, too.

All afternoon Deb thought about it. What could Mama do if he just went ahead? "Mama," he would say crisply, "today I bought that farm. Next week we'll move."

Then he would be sternly silent, unmoved by her tears. At last she would dry her eyes and begin to pack. Deb chuckled delightedly with the thought. A man ought to be master in his own house.

He walked home after work with a brisk, determined step. Unconsciously his shoulders straightened and his chin jutted forward. Mama and Mary had just come in. Mary's arms were full of bundles. Mama looked hot and tired and triumphant. Deb stood with his legs braced far apart. He gave Mama a cold, masterful glance. This was going to be hard on her.

But Mama was paying no attention to Deb. She was chatting brightly. "We went for a ride this afternoon, and Mary said as long as we were in the country we might as well look at that farm you were talking about. She thought the house was just impossible," Mama chuckled, "but I showed her how it could be fixed up real nice. It has the nicest big window in the living room. Mary, where's those curtains I bought? I want to show Papa."

Mary winked slyly at Deb. Then she looked surprised. "Why, Papa, aren't you glad? Mama made an appointment with the man to draw up the papers."

"Well, that's fine," Deb said slowly. He shuffled forward to view the package Mama was unwrapping. His shoulders were hunched in their accustomed slump, and his chin set at its old, defeated angle.

THE Sun Life of Canada is an institution of Public Service conducted in the interests of its policyholders. Such was the purpose of its founders in 1865, a purpose which has been proudly maintained through nearly eight decades of continuous development. And such will be the purpose that will guide the destiny of this Company in the generations yet to be.

The premiums paid by its more than one million policyholders go into a common fund operated for their benefit. It is out of this fund that policy obligations are paid as they become due. The savings resulting from efficient management, apart from a very small shareholders' interest, go entirely to the policyholders. Each individual policyholder has an interest in the common fund according to the particular form of contract he holds. The relationship of the Company to its policyholders is in the nature of a trusteeship under which the Company agrees to carry out its obligations with the money entrusted to its care. The assets of a life assurance company represent the funds accumulated from the premiums paid by the policyholders. It is the responsibility of the company so to manage these funds as to ensure the faithful carrying out of every obligation, and to endeavour to furnish life assurance at as low a cost as possible. The insurance laws provide ample safeguards to protect the interests of the policyholders and to assure sound administration.

In the past year, the new business secured by the Sun Life of Canada amounted to $220,323,142. The assurances in force increased by $139,107,959 and now total $3,312,525,426. The benefits paid during the year were $80,582,921, which brings the total amount paid since the founding of the Company to $1,710,446,363. The Company's activities during 1944 give ample evidence of its continued progress. The business and the assets of the Company have increased, and substantial additions have been made to surplus and other funds to further safeguard policyholders' interests.

Plane Accident Causing Death Of Former Polish Premier Was Not From This Cause

Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair, denied in Commons the charge that the death of Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, former Polish premier, in July, 1943, resulted from overloading of aeroplane taking off from a Gibraltar airfield.

Sinclair said the wreck which resulted in Sikorski's death was caused by the breaking of a piece of machinery in the plane which locked its controls.

Sinclair also said that Lt. Gen. W. H. E. Gott was killed when the plane in which he was travelling to take command of the Eighth Army in August, 1942, was strafed and set on fire by a German plane on Libyan airfield.

GARDEN NOTES

Dig It Well

A great deal of useful experience has been gained from Victory Gardens. Most important is the need for thorough preliminary cultivation. In a great many cases this was not done last year before the results of the garden were in. The object is to have the soil worked up fine and free of weeds, especially twigs, before the seeds are planted. Rather than rush in the radish, carrots and peas at the first opportunity, old-timers advise waiting for another week if necessary, and in the meantime cultivating thoroughly and deeply. This extra work before the rows are planted will repay itself many times over in the hoeing and weeding it saves later, after the garden is planted.

Flower Groupings

Flowers divide themselves into three groups. There are very hardy things that sometimes seed themselves, such as marigolds, cosmos, sweet peas, petunia seed, pansies, etc. One can plant them as soon as the ground is ready. In the intermediate category would be nasturtiums, bedding plants and at the far end of the list, lilies, dahlias, gladioli, etc. Semi-tropical plants that cannot stand frost at all. The degree of hardness, of course, will be mentioned along with the variety in any good Canadian seed catalogue.

Lawn Work

As soon as the frost goes out it is time to put up protecting stakes and wire, and as soon as one can walk on the grass without miring, it is time to plant seed. One can hardly sow the seed too early, and a high seed mixture from a Canadian seed house is recommended. Follow seeding directions closely. Lawns should be rolled when ground is soft.

Trout belong to the salmonidae family, and like the salmon, spend a part of their life in salt water, if conditions permit.

CONTROL OF GRAIN INSECTS
Experimental work by the Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture, has demonstrated that insects and mites affecting grain in storage can be controlled by fumigation with chloropicrin and this method has been employed generally by grain companies in Canada.

HAT'S all this talk about life insurance being a monopoly?

ANSWER: It's just not true. If you want to shop around in Canada for insurance—you can pick an American company, or a British company, or a Canadian company. You may choose a stock company, or a strictly mutual company. You may select either a participating or a non-participating policy.

You mean there's real competition?

ANSWER: There is, indeed. Anyone who has let it be known that he is in the market for insurance realizes just how keen competition is between the different companies. He knows they offer a wide variety of plans and premium rates. Monopoly is a term which can never be truthfully applied to the life insurance business in Canada.

RED CROSS STILL WORKS

Although the war in Europe is drawing to a successful conclusion, the work of the Canadian Red Cross will not decrease with the surrender. Rather the responsibilities of the Red Cross will become heavier because considerable help must be given to the peoples of the liberated countries who have suffered so much during the period of occupancy.

Relief authorities estimate there are over 17,000,000 persons destitute and homeless in the freed areas. Many of them are suffering from disease and their children are victims of malnutrition. The Canadian Red Cross Society, along with other relief agencies, both in the field and in hospitals. It have shipped clothing and food to these people, but more and more must be sent if the real victims of war, the civilians, are to be saved to help build a better world.

In raising the money for the relief in the liberated countries, the Canadian United Allied Relief Fund is collaborating with the Red Cross so that the maximum amount for this work can be obtained as quickly as possible. And by adopting this system, one less national appeal will be made to the Canadian people this year.

In addition to helping the liberated nations, the Red Cross must continue to provide comforts for our forces, etc., along with other relief agencies, both in the field and in hospitals. It will be some time after the surrender before our prisoners of war can be repatriated, so the flow of food parcels must go on. And it will be some time before our prisoners in the Far East will be free.

The Red Cross blood donor service must be continued, for as long as there are Canadian troops in action there will be a need for life-saving blood serum. Here again, the Pacific theatre of war cannot be overlooked.

All in all, there is no situation that can arise that will lessen the responsibilities of the Canadian Red Cross. Rather the responsibilities are more likely to be greater than ever.
